

Telegrams
BIBLOS, LONDON

SOHO SQUARE

LONDON, W.

23rd June 1899

17.11

Dear Dr Goldziker,

I have much pleasure in resuming our correspondence of two years ago, and should be specially glad to hear that you are now able (as you hoped to be) to undertake the work of seeing through the press a new edition of our much lamented friend Robertson

Smith's Kinship and Marriage, for which, you may remember, I sent you some materials left by him. Messrs A. & C. Black request me to say that they would greatly wish to be able to publish it this autumn. But, should this be quite impossible, perhaps you will kindly say what is the earliest date at which you could have it ready for delivery to them.

I hope you are well. I am happy to say that we expect at last to be able to publish the first instalment of the Encyclopaedia Biblica in October.

With kind regards,

Yours very truly

John S. Black