Dear M. Lukacs,

I am writing to you on the suggestion of M.J.M. Domenach, rédacteur en chef of Esprit, to ask if the International Literary Pool of UNESCO may have your permission to offer your article, " Art libre ou art dirigé?" from the September number of that review, for republication in one or more magazines in UNESCO's other member states. The Literary Pool, with which more than two hundred literary reviews co-operate, works for the increase of international knowledge and understanding by the exchange of published magazine articles, of literary quality and representative character or international interest. Articles and stories are offered for republication free of charge, but subject of course to the inclusion of a copyright line which acknowledges the original publication and states that the material is reprinted by arrangement with the International Literary Pool of UNESCO. We shall be very glad indeed if we may offer your stimulation article from Esprit for such republication, and I hope that you can permit us to do so.

Awaiting word from you, and with the expression of my appreciation for the courtesy of your attention, I am

Yours sincerely,
