

Fragment of an ancient Hebrew manuscript, likely a scroll, showing multiple columns of text in Hebrew script. The parchment is heavily damaged, with significant tearing and discoloration. The text is arranged in approximately 10-12 columns, with some lines appearing to be part of a larger section or chapter, possibly indicated by larger characters or spacing. The script is dense and appears to be a standard form of Hebrew from the late antique or medieval period. The fragment is irregularly shaped, with jagged edges and a central vertical crease where the scroll was bound.