Dear Professor Goldziker:

It is only from the Jewish Chronicle of London that I learn of the celebration of your seventieth birthday. I hasten to offer you my most cordial and affectionate greetings, coupled with the wish that you may be spared to us for a long time as a leader and a teacher. I know that Mr. S. Weil joins me in these greetings and this wish. Above the clash of arms and far removed from the forum of political clashes, the Scholars of the whole world must find some basis for a new era of reciprocal confidence and trust. As a Jew, also, I offer you most hearty congratulations; for we Jews are proud of the position you have won for yourself not only by your scientific work, but also by your attachment to the interests of your people.

Please remember us Very kindly to Mr. Goldziker, and Believe me to be

D. S. W. 11.5.01502

Faithfully yours

Richard Gottheil.
