My dear Goldy, it is an age since I have heard from you, though I have written several times, and I am very anxious. We often speak of you and I remember you in July 1777, 1780, 1785 1791, 1794, 1797. There will be a few of us who will, I think, be a centre for a new life when this is all over. There will surely be Massignon and Cain and Nicholson with us too.

I do little just now but my teaching and there is enough of that. Yesterday I saw for the first time my Pitaya article in print. I should be very glad to know what you think of it. I have made a good deal of progress in clearing up the history of the text of the Ugbes and will soon be ready to write out.
But do let us know how it is going with you and yours.
In affectionate remembrance,
Sincerely yours, D. B. Macdonald
